

Kevin Scott
Non-executive Director

Kevin Scott was appointed non-executive Director of Stellantis with effect from January 17, 2021. Born in Lynchburg, Virginia, in 1972, Kevin Scott has been executive vice president of technology & research, and Chief Technology Officer of Microsoft since 2017. Kevin Scott's 20-year career in technology spans both academia and industry as researcher, engineer and leader.

Prior to joining Microsoft, Kevin Scott was senior vice president of engineering and operations at LinkedIn from 2011 to 2016. Earlier in his career, Kevin Scott oversaw mobile ads engineering at Google, including the integration of Google's acquisition of AdMob. At AdMob, Kevin Scott was responsible for engineering and operations for the world's leading platform for mobile monetization. Before joining AdMob, Kevin Scott held numerous leadership positions at Google in the search and advertising divisions of the company.

Kevin Scott is the founder of the non-profit organization Behind the Tech, a member of the Anita Borg Institute's board of trustees and a director of The Scott Foundation.

Kevin Scott holds an M.S. in computer science from Wake Forest University, a B.S. in computer science from University of Lynchburg, and has completed most of his Ph.D. in computer science at the University of Virginia.